Interests & Experiences

Special Expertise, Experience, or Interest in This Area?

I have a Master's in Library and Information Science, work experience in special collections libraries and archives, and am currently pursuing a PhD in Information Studies, focusing on late 19th/early 20th century public library and labor histories. I also served on the steering committee for Libraries For The People (<https://www.librariesforthepeople.org/>) for several years and continue to be involved with that organizing; I am also a member of and organizer with the Library Freedom Project (<https://libraryfreedom.org/>). I have a strong working knowledge of how library boards function and their important role in public library systems. I believe public libraries are more important than ever as third spaces for communities, particularly for marginalized members of our community, and I believe a primary role of a library's advisory board is to ensure that everyone feels welcome at and served by the public library. My experiences as a library worker, a library scholar, and a library patron help inform all work I do with libraries and archives.
