Assessment:

The oak tree stands at approximately 45 feet tall with a DBH (Diameter at Breast Height) of 2.6 feet. The tree appears to be healthy and vigorous, showing no visual signs of decay around the base. The trunk has two codominant stems that are both healthy and similar in size. The crown is healthy with no signs of decline or stress.

Mitigation:

Recommendation to keep tree healthy and reduce risk of failure: a thorough inspection of limbs and crotches, dead wood removal for limbs over 2 inch in diameter and weight reduction in the crown (crown raising).
