As Metrc rolls out soon, Sipca will continue to be an excessive burden on the local cannabis farmers. And it's our understanding it will be very expensive for the county to maintain this separate, yet not fully integrated system in addition to what the cannabis industry is required to report to the state. My husband, Marty Clein, a permitted & licensed cultivator, has attended the track & trace working group meetings & even Sipca reps agree its double the work, high cost, with no apparent value to us, or our county. He is not in attendance at the BOS meeting today because he is taking me to doctors appointments. But this is an issue the Board can end right now by cancelling or suspending the track & trace program. Thank you for your time . Sincerely, Laura Clein, Mendocino County resident
