

I would like to be on record stating that, as a resident of Redwood Valley, I urge the county to NOT reopen right now. Doing so would be a premature decision based on political pressure and not science or expertise. We must be looking at ways to be resilient through adaptation rather than desperately going back a lifestyle that is gone for the foreseeable future. We must step forward, not back. Business as usual will result in hundreds of people dying in our community.

Thank you,
