Vicki,

Thank you for checking in on the Dharma Buddhist Association driving in creek complaint. I spoke with several project proponents for other projects in the area eliminate any possibility that what you saw was another permitted project. That was not the case and I have since spoken with a spokesperson from the City of Ten Thousand Buddhas. They acknowledged that upland vegetation removal work was occurring, but did not know of any vehicles driving within the creek. A Regional Water Board staff person is planning to head to Ukiah early next week for a series of site inspections and will visit the site at that time. I will update you again once I hear back from them.

Thank you,
