I would suggest the county list of essential business be the same as the State. The City of Fort Bragg is planning on putting fining authority with the police department.

I think this will get pretty nasty soon. People turning in others. Older folks are afraid to get in their car and go park by the beach, made more difficult with all the park closures.

Very sad indeed. Many think they will get a ticket for doing just that. It would be a sad state of affairs if police officers and sheriff deputies are ticketing folks in their car. Who could they possibly contaminate?

And if they have been sheltered in place the either had it and got well or have not been exposed. I am CC this to the City Manager too. I will be commenting on the council item tonight as well. Humans don't do captivity well, and I personally think some common sense would go a long way in this situation.

Serious yes it is. The State has its shelter in place, why then does the county need to keep its going?
