

There is too much still not known about this virus. Every bit more we have learned so far has been scarier: young people with little or no symptoms dying of strokes and heart attacks from blood clots; people who have had it, appearing to catch it again; people who have had it left with heart breaking physical issues which appear permanent; the list goes on. There will be no 'normal' until there is a viable vaccine, but even with mandatory masjs, etc., we should give it a bit more time before we open our county back up.

Thank you,
