

To whom it may concern:

In speaking with numerous fellow Californians we feel that we should immediately be able to open up camping and other recreation that goes along with it. If you can funnel thousands of people through a grocery store or hardware store weekly without a spike in cases there should be no reason we can't camp and enjoy our great outdoors. So many smaller local economies rely on only a few short months a year that they are able to make a profit and be successful. Any time taken away from that season will have detrimental effects on these economies. Camping has shown to reduce stress and promote healing within the body providing fresh air, good germs and vitamin D.

Please open the camping immediately to provide relief to the small local economies and promote safe outdoor recreation.

Thank you

Miranda Silveira

Sent from my iPhone