

day 8 of being “open” for lack of a better word and along the Fort Bragg coast folks seem to be behaving mostly properly

I see a lot of masks when folks are in lines closer to each other the coast trail has a few folks on the north end Saturday afternoons but very scarce for the most of the trail ( I ride my bike all 6 miles end to end every other day ) and a surprising # of masks being worn even by 1 – 2 pods the restaurants I frequently seem to be playing by the rules and does local businesses my tiny RV Park is running at about 55% capacity, which is about where we keep it anyway no idea vacancy rates of the larger hotels etc. ?

I certainly had not heard of any incidents myself ( except Fiddleheads ) and social media seems mostly quiet if I see or detect anything worth mentioning I will pass it along thank you all again !
