

Well the barn door has been left open and I think it's too late to walk backwards. It is an absolute shitshow out there. Personally I have nothing wrong with the plant. What I do have is a problem the way it is grown. The plastic fences, the plastic hoop houses, the water situation, the light, the entire carbon footprint that is part of the growing process. These folks have 3 seasons. Non stop. Just across the road from me there was an attempted robbery I woke up to gunfire. Couple days ago huge explosion and another operation goes down in flames. Thank goodness it wasn't dry and windy, the entire neighborhood would have went up in flames. There should be an ordinance that the weed is grown entirely naturally, if the sun can't grow it it's not allowed, work towards. I know this is a long shot. This county is now an eyesore. First time in my life, and I am 5th generation I have seriously thought about getting the hell out of here. Greed nothing but greed. The quantity and quality of people that are here for the greenrush is disgusting. Look what has happened to Covelo. Coming to a neighborhood near you, explosions, gunfire, drought, and greed. And there is absolutely no enforcement. When you drive around this Valley at night and see all of the lights it is totally disgusting. Drive during the day you see tacky plastic fences, piles of plastic, an assortment of trimmigrants. Not to mention there is no water left in the mountains for the wildlife. You have a lot on your plate and I wish you only the best. Thanks for taking this job on.
