

To those who can make a difference:

Coexistence with our wild lands and the animals that inhabit them is not just possible but imperative to ecosystem balance.

I guess it's hard for me to understand an agency that's wants to eradicate something lethally. Why? We're just seeing the light at the end of the tunnel from the pandemic where death has slithered to every corner of our World. And we continue to kill our wild animals?

Is it because we think humans are better? Animals can't feel? Animals don't bleed? What could possibly make a person think the best way is by killing? Really? In 2021?

We see Africa struggling with their beautiful animals fighting poachers. Many worrying if that species will be here for our grandchildren.

Will that be us? Will we be legal poachers?

Is it really so hard to help an animal?

There are so many many many non lethal ways to coexist with our wild animals. Aren't we all here because of our love for this county? Why aren't we treating this county with love including our wild animals.

Is it quicker to use lethal methods? Is that the reason for cruelty? Is it cheaper? Is that the reason for cruelty?

I could NOT get up in the morning and look at myself in the mirror if I were cruel. How do you sleep at night and see yourself in the morning? Wouldn't you rest easier and see yourself with pride if you did the RIGHT thing?

Let's choose kindness.
