

I am writing to register my opposition to the proposed Cannabis Land Use Ordinance. It should already be clear that the people in this county are not in favor of large commercial cannabis farms. The county is unable to handle the paperwork for the people already here trying to follow the new rules—how on earth can we think that the county is capable of regulating an influx of larger cannabis farms? Mendocino County's cannabis reputation has been built by the smaller farmers. Why would we want to encourage larger farms that will destroy our natural resources? Please think much more carefully about what you want this county to look like in the future.

Thank you,
