

BOS,

I understand that the demonstration forest of Jackson State was planned for continuous lumbering. However due to the fact that redwoods are only grown in the Pacific North West in a small region, I believe that we should meet the moment in real time. Whatever was agreed upon before needs to be reevaluated. Be on the right side of historTREE.

Please. Redwoods are dying. The saplings can't survive without the canopy of the elder trees.

Please consider.

Thank you
